

Mural park receives provincial grant

The Elk Point Mural Park has received assistance from the Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation in the form of a $5000 grant. This funding will be used to get the basic landscaping of the park underway in the early spring of 1990. Park plans for 1990 include setting the substructure and seeding the area to grass. Additional funding is being sought in order to lay sidewalks and build a bridge across the north end of the creek. Trees will be planted as well. The Mural Park Committee is looking for the donation of trees and planting labor. Trees native to the area are preferred in keeping with the theme of the park.

It is hoped all other aspects will be completed in the summer of 1991 well in time for the bicentennial celebrations in 1992. These include fencing, putting in picnic tables and benches, establishing a wildflower garden and putting up a gazebo.

The Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation mandate is the development and maintenance of parks in Alberta, particularly those which are creative, innovative and that complement existing services. The Elk Point Mural Park Committee gratefully acknowledges their assistance.

Preliminary hearing set

The preliminary hearing for three local individuals charged with the first degree murder of Geoffrey Dorey has been set over to March 15, 1990, in St. Paul Provincial Court.

Alma Fryingpan, Flora Fryingpan and Victor Johnson were charged earlier this month, following the discovery of skeletal remains in the rubble of Dorey's burned home south of Elk Point. Dorey's disappearance resulted in an extensive RCMP search after his home was destroyed by fire in the early hours of October 4, 1989.

Santa's Toyshop?

Elk Point is a long way from the North Pole, but Dorothy Ackeral certainly resembles one of Santa's busy elves as she saws, glues, hammers and paints up a storm on a variety of wooden toys and children's furniture in her Autumn Leaves workshop in downtown Elk Point.

Community Services Board members appointed

Elk Point's new Community Services Board, created to take over the responsibilities of both the Recreation and Cultural Board and the Family and Community Support Services Board, is ready to get down to work, with appointments of all seven members made at Monday's Town Council meeting. Marshall Kachmar and Victor Stepa will serve for three year terms on the new board, John Emery and Rev. Sam Donaldson for two year terms, and Mrs. Niki Riemer for a one year term. Mayor Bruce Kleeberger and Councillor Adele Mandryk will represent the Town on the Board, which will meet for the first time on Monday, December 18.

Water again submerged much of Council's discussions, with Public Works Superintendent Ron Fraess on hand to offer input on the proposed repairs to the water treatment plant. Four bids were submitted on repairs to the clarifier and clear wells, with one withdrawn before the bids were opened Monday evening. Cost estimates ranged from $50,825 to $54,939, but it was discovered that the two highest estimates did not include coating of the common wall between the two clear wells, while the third and lowest included liners for both sections, including the common wall. None of the bidders could determine how one side of the common wall could be sandblasted and recoated with the other clear well still in use. Both clear wells cannot be shut down simultaneously and both sides drained for the necessary period of time to complete the recoating process, but it would be possible to use just one side at a time, Fraess said.

Repairs to the clarifier had not originally been considered by Council, who agreed at their last regular meeting to obtain firm prices for sandblasting and recoating the clearwells to repair damage done by sulphur producing bacteria in the water, however the quality of the water now coming into the plant is so greatly improved that it would be possible to bypass the clarifier for the period of time necessary to drain, sandblast and recoat the huge vat, while the workers are on site to repair the clear wells. Prices for the clarifier revamping range from $16,340 to $17,430.

Council agreed to ask Stanley and Associates Engineering Consultants, who have examined the situation carefully, to take another look at the situation and discuss with the Utilities Committee the feasibility of using liners in the clear wells, or any other unexplored solutions, with recommendations to be brought back to the December 11 Council meeting.

Mayor Kleeberger cites the hefty repair bids as 'fifty thousand reasons not to draw water out of the creek again,' as water containing considerable organic matter has been found to be the source of the concrete-eating bacteria, which also were responsible for the town's discolored water supply earlier this fall. Super chlorination of the water system, combined with the new water pumped into the reservoir from the North Saskatchewan River, has alleviated the colored water situation, but the damage to the treatment plant remains to be taken care of.

Council is sending a letter to Alberta Environment in hopes that funding, equipment and manpower may still be available to pump more water from the river in early spring to replenish the reservoir.

Plans to study raw water supplies for a long term solution to the problem were back on the agenda, after discussion with staff of Alberta Transportation and Utilities and Alberta Environment at last week's AUMA Convention. It now appears that if a request to reconsider funding the raw water supply study is sent to Alberta Transportation and Utilities, funding may indeed be available.

Official Takeover

Westmin becomes Norcen

Effective December 1, 1989, all of Westmin Resources Limited's oil and gas assets will be taken over by Norcen Energy Resources Limited of Calgary. Westmin and Norcen have obtained a favorable Revenue Canada tax ruling on this transaction. This takeover was originally announced on February 14, 1989 and it has taken ten months to receive all the necessary approvals.

Allan Frankiw, Area Superintendent for the Norcen

Elk Point Operation says that he foresees no changes to the Elk Point Operation. "We currently have 47 employees working at the Elk Point Operation and the activity level will most likely remain at the same level that it's at currently. The only changes that will be noticeable will be the new company signs and blue Norcen operator trucks."

If the general public has any question regarding the takeover, please call Allan Frankiw at 724-4209.

Combined board set to go

Another matter to be brought back before Council due to developments at the AUMA Convention was that of a bid for the Northern Lights Library System Headquarters. The Honorable Ray Speaker, Minister of Alberta Municipal Affairs, announced in his keynote address to the AUMA that lands in the AMHC land banks or developments can be purchased by municipalities for municipal or recreation purpose at the land's appraised value, which would substantially cut the cost of land in the north subdivision and the industrial subdivision. In view of this, the Administrator was directed to send an update to the System regarding the improved land price which would be available if they wished to reconsider Elk Point as one of the sites on their short list.

Elk Point Agricultural Society will also be advised of the savings the town could now incur and pass on if the Society wishes to obtain some of this land for their fairgrounds and pavilion development.

A damages claim by a resident whose property suffered from sewage backup due to a plugged sewer main will be reviewed by the Utilities Department and will be paid if all is in order.

Council agreed to forego an update of the Community Impact Assessment Study at this time, and will advise the NADC of this decision. The NADC can then make this funding available to some other project in need of financial assistance.

Reports on the AUMA Convention were heard from Councillors Pidluzny and Mandryk, and Administrator Pat Vincent. All agreed that their attendance had been extremely worthwhile. Councillor Alvina Schuhmacher carried Elk Point's flag in the opening ceremonies.

Council was advised that a cheque in the amount of $66,666 has been received from Alberta Recreation and Parks for the development of recreational facilities through the Municipal Recreation / Tourism Areas Program. The funds will go to further development at the recreation land.

Editor's Note: Some confusion regarding funding for the water supply study, and NADC funding available for the community impact assessment study update resulted from last week's Council story. It should be clarified that there is no relationship between these two amounts of funding, as they are for different projects entirely. Sorry, readers.

Stepa wins award

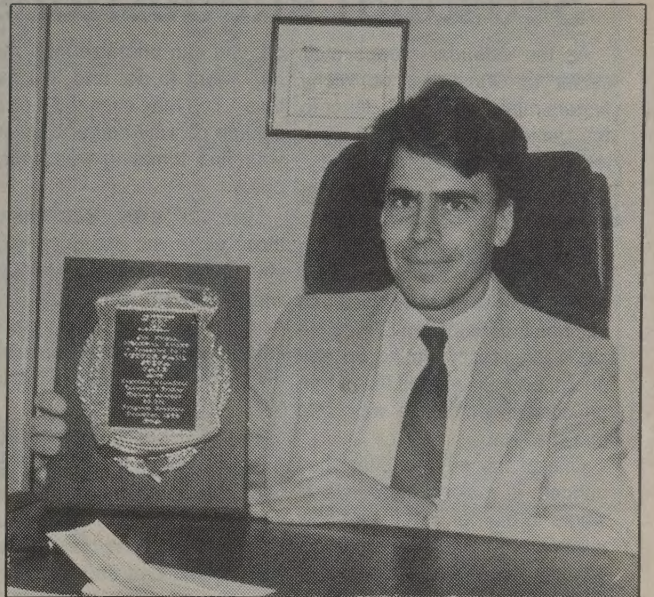

Victor Stepa of Elk Point Insurance and Realty, who recently received his Canadian Accredited Insurance Broker status, was presented with a prestigious award at the Insurance Agents Convention in Edmonton earlier this month.

Stepa received the Jim Knoll Award, which is presented to the student who completes the three semesters of the CAIB program within a two year period and achieves the highest average on the three examinations. Stepa completed the three semesters with a 86.3 percent average.

The award is presented in memory of Jim Knoll, an insurance broker who grew up in Vermilion, where his father was a doctor, and who was a proponent of further education for insurance brokers.

Stepa, Holly Astill of Elk Point Insurance, and three people from Vermilion were the only rural students taking the CAIB course, and met once a week to study and discuss the material. All five did very well, even without the assistance of an instructor for the correspondence based course.

Award Winning Broker

Victor Stepa was presented with the Jim Knoll Award for his exemplary standing in CAIB examinations.

Long Awaited Backboards

Lioness club news

As a community service group, we've decided that we need to become involved in one of the biggest and most pressing issues today: our environment crisis.

We have two major projects coming up for 1990: a toxic waste roundup (watch this paper for more details); also together with the 1st Elk Point Scouting Association, we are organizing a paper drive. So start saving your papers now!

Both the Lioness and Scouts have banned the use of styrofoam cups at our meetings and functions. It is a small thing, but it is a step in the right direction. We challenge all other clubs to do the same!

We are not claiming to be experts, but feel that we could be of service to our community by having a regular column of tips and facts. We hope to clear up a little of the confusion, and show you how you too can make a difference!

One last note: hats off to the E-Can Company. They've had a barrel set up in the shop for a year in which all their employees throw their juice and pop containers. The Scouts pick them up and turn them in to be recycled.

Grand opening for craft shop

Large numbers of well wishers flocked to Ruby Hanna's Creative Designs and Crafts grand opening last Friday, enjoying coffee and doughnuts and leaving with ideas and supplies for gifts and decorative items, if not with one of the handsome wreaths or table centres which lined the walls and shelves of the busy little shop.

Door prize draws were made just before closing time, with Darlene Seniuk winning the main prize of a floral arrangement, and Irene Miller, Bea Williams, Cindy O'Hara, Leona Moneta, Cheri Lindquist and Anne Uchman winning corsages.

Mrs. Hanna is now looking forward to the pre-Christmas rush, with each customer making a $5 or larger purchase from December 1 to 22 eligible to put his or her name on a gift tag and hang it on her snowy tree. A draw from all the tags will be made during the afternoon of December 22 for a basket arrangement featuring electric candles and festive greenery.

Lioness pancake breakfast

The Lioness Club is once again holding their annual free Pancake Breakfast to show their appreciation to the community for their support of the various club projects throughout the past year.

It will be held at the Elk Point United Church Hall on Saturday, December 2 between 10 a.m. and noon. Lioness President Jane Mahon has confirmation that Santa will be in attendance in order to check the Christmas list of all the children.

The Lioness club is sponsoring Santas Anonymous again this year and donations may be made at the breakfast. Please bring a new toy or non-perishable food to help us in this worthy cause.

Come out, everyone, and enjoy breakfast with friends from the community and with Santa.

In Our View

Seasonal suggestions

As the calendar creeps ever closer to Christmas, our itchy fingers move just a little closer to the panic button. Only 26 days left-yipe! We'll never be ready!

We will, of course. It just seems, every year, like our endless lists of things to do before the holiday will never be completed. One book of suggestions for dealing with pre-Christmas panic likens it to eating an elephant, and assures us that it can be done in the same way: one bite at a time.

One of the earliest bites they suggest is making lists: lists of whom to buy for, gift ideas, how much can be spent on what, what to bake, what to serve at holiday gatherings, who to invite, what events are on your December calendar, what housecleaning needs to be done, and possibly a list of the lists. While you're still chewing on that, they suggest then going through the lists and asking yourself if you really want to give a gift to that person, if you really want to spend that much, what alternatives would be feasible, if you had too much or too little baking last year, if you really want to host that party and ask those people, what events mean the most to you and your family, and if it makes sense to clean the attic when no one will go up there, or if it would be better to wash the bathroom ceiling which everyone may well see. Once your lists are red-pencilled and the obvious non-essentials taken off, you can prioritize into 'must do,' 'want to do' and 'if I have time.' You may even put a fourth column of 'why bother?' in case your first trimming was superficial.

Lists are easy. You can do those while you eat lunch, while you watch television, while you watch the kids in the tub. Trimming and arranging them takes a little effort, but saves considerably more-and probably money, too.

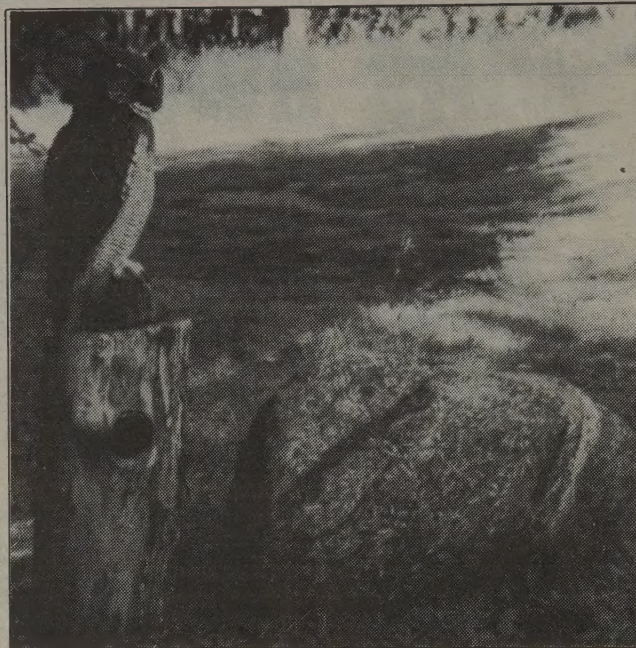

The next bite they suggest is doing the things that can be done well in advance, as early as possible. You can even start picking up gifts as you see them all year long, if you can find a place to store them where you will remember they are, and no one else will search them out. Fruitcakes and plum pudding should be made weeks ahead of time, and other baking can also be done early, if you have no children or a lock on your freezer. Handmade gifts can also be worked on through the year, whenever you have time. Doing some things well ahead frees up time closer to the big day for the remaining tasks, and for spending time at the pre-Christmas events you enjoy.

That's two bites gone already, and you can almost see past the old elephant on one corner. That wasn't so bad, was it? Let's all see how many of the things on our lists that we can check off by next week!

Who says I don't give a hoot?

By Irene Magnusson

I've thought, a few times, that someday I would tell you all about my Owls, not to brag, but just to share them with you. Of course, the only real way I can share them is for you all to come out to my house and have a look. Since that is unlikely, except for you few who do live close enough, then - here goes.

I just went around the house and (sort of) counted them. Counted the sets (of two - salt and pepper sets, bookends) (of three - families, pictures) as one, I found 120. Then there are a few (wind chimes, window hanging) which have 5 or 6 in, so perhaps I have, individually, over 150.

And it all began so innocently! I saw this pattern in a magazine, how to make an owl hanging of suede leather. It appealed to me, and I was doing leather that year, so I got Cliff to cut out a shape for me from light plywood of a great horned owl, about a foot high. This I covered with 'feathers' cut from several shades of soft suede leather, and there he was - my first owl - and there he still is, perched above the front entry door.

The family of owls grew, over the last fifteen years or so, into this great number I am surrounded with. Strangely, I have never grown tired of this surrogate family. I have added to the group many times, myself, mostly at garage sales, flea markets and such. Some I paid real money for, a few others I made.

But the vast majority of my owl family came to me as gifts, from friends and family, who, once having learned of my propensity to surround myself with replicas of our hooters of the wild, have continued to shower me with owls of many kinds.

My owls come in such a diversity of materials. I have a dozen or so mugs with owls glazed onto their sides, from which I enjoy my coffee (and which I forgot to count!). There is even a tea set of nine pieces, with little owls perched in the stylized trees that decorate each piece. Snuggled up beside the tea set in my cabinet are salt and peppers, toothpick holders, vases - all shaped to resemble owls of one sort or another - or completely imaginative owls.

I have an owl orchestra, owls made of tiny seashells glued on a form to represent feathers, which came from B.C., and may have been made there. Another is of larger shells, claiming the Phillipines as home, although he was carried from Hawaii. There is one pot-bellied stylized fellow, who serves as a coin bank, all the way from Japan. He stands beside a mottled owl candle, about six inches tall, which proclaims to have leadless wick, and travelled all the way from Italy to sit on my shelf.

An audacious chap stares down at me from a perch on a log, and he is a crushed (bean?) can, painted in shades of white and grey. He came from Winnipeg. There is a little hand-thrown ceramic jug, with owl face and eyes of pebbles, and is imprinted with the stamped mark of "rgen of zoom" with a tiny cat and three crosses in a ring, which I've never figured out. A bright-eyed green owl perches next to him, holding a thermometer in his stump perch, and a pencil tucked through a wing; he came to me from Vermilion, formerly of Japan.

My largest owl is a plastic garden variety, fully as large as the best of them; next in size is a stuffed felt 'fun' fellow, in red, white and blue, whose only claim to reality is the general shape. But he is soft and cuddly, and well loved.

Others on my shelf are made of ceramics, copper, brass, alabaster, and glass. Two musicians play a fiddle and a mandoline, while a tiny pair not over two inches tall, listen enraptured. Back in a hollow stump, a brown mother with her two babies crouch together, given to me by my Mother. One mischievous coppery barn owl flirts gleaming blue eyes at me, reminding me he is from Italy, too, via Saskatoon. A very tiny hand-crafted threesome, of mom, dad and babe, perch on a box, so they can be seen, while another tidbit sits in his plastic box, proclaiming he is from England, and made of pure wool.

Are you bored yet? Please don't be! There are so many more. Bunches of five or six hang together, waiting for a current of air, to prove they are wind chimes. One lovely stained glass owl hangs in my window, made by Sister Virginia. At least three embroidered owls hang in frames on my walls, along with an "artex" panel of three, and a ruler holder with a yellow felt owl to guard it. Hand-

Letter to the Editor

The trade of Jimmy Carson

Dear Editor:

I am upset because Jimmy Carson was traded to the Detroit Red Wings. I was his fan. All because of Mark Messier who was being rough on him, Jimmy Carson wanted to be traded. Carson didn't like what Messier was doing, so he wanted to be traded. He got away with it. If only Mark Messier wasn't such a poor sport. He wanted to win every game they had. Mark Messier was so desperate to win, the Oilers lost almost every game because of him. If Messier plays better, the Edmonton Oilers will be the Stanley Cup Champions once again.

painted stones compose another couple of wall hangings, becoming pigmy owls on driftwood.

Owls are made of so many mediums. There is a turned-wood owl, with amber eyes; a tall fellow created by (my guess) an electric drill, of a piece of laurel; soapstone from Nanaimo, an Original Wolf, possibly from Quebec. Dennis brought me an owl from Wales, made from coal, and I brought one from Wichita, with a sunflower on his tummy; gift from Brother Eddy. I found a ceramic vase, certainly made by a very young child, with huge owl eyes, at a flea market in Stittsville, Ontario. I have a white one, all of feathers, and a crystal tiny owl to catch the rays of winter sun. Beside him sits an even tinier china figure, all complete, and my glass Avon talc container, with his big blue sparkling eyes.

Hanging high is a long-furred Ookpik, created by my mother, and pairs of foam-ball owls, cardboard owls, many pictures, framed and unframed, of my owl friends. Someone hooked an owl wall-hanging, there are hand towels, placemats, potholders with owls, a spoon tray, a key rack, a whole set of macrame towel holders - all depicting owls.

I will describe no more. Suffice it to say, I am well 'owled', my collection is an 'owling' success - and I love 'em all. I took a few snaps of some of them a couple of years ago, and once took a few to the Extended Care Unit at the hospital, in a sort of "show and tell" session. I also have photos I've taken of the real thing, some even sitting on my porch.

The Great Horned Owl is Alberta's official bird, and we have them all winter. We also have great grey owls, barn owls, screech owls - and possibly others. In winter we may see an Arctic owl, the large white ones, but they leave in spring. Owls are protected - do not annoy them.

If any of you want to see my owl family, you are welcome - just give me a call first, so I'll be home. I'll even play my owl tapes, if you coax me.

Elks hockey underway

By Del Smith

As most of you readers have heard, the Elk Point Elks Hockey Club is alive and playing. We are now part of the Sask-Alta League, which is in its 26th season. Other teams in the league are from Marwayne, Dewberry, Kitscoty, Paradise Valley, Hillmond, Neilburg and Edgerton. The Neilburg Monarchs Hockey Club is in its 45th year. We hope that we, the Elks, can do justice to and deserve to be in this league. This is a working man's league, as I see it, with the sticks and the elbows down. The refereeing goes by the book.

Our first league game was played at Marwayne against Marwayne Comets on Wednesday, November 22. The Elks and Comets came out playing hockey at a very high pace, setting a game of very fast skating and hard hitting. The first period ended with the Comets scoring and leading 1-0. The second period, the Elks did not take this lying down, taking charge of the play and outplaying the Comets. At the end of the second period, the Elks led 6-1. In the third, the Comets came out flying and the Elks, feeling they had the game won, were playing very lax. The Comets put on the pressure and scored 2 quick goals, before the Elks again took over the game to score 2 more goals for a final score of 8-3.

The Elks led with 7 penalties while the Comets had 5.

The second league game was at Kitscoty on Saturday, November 25 against Kitscoty Monarchs. The game again started at a very fast pace with the Elks seeming to take all the penalties and playing shorthanded most of the period. The period ended with the Monarchs leading 1-0, but the Elks, still shorthanded, controlled most of the play. The second period was more of the same, as the ref seemed to see only black sweaters and no white sweaters, with the Elks again receiving most of the penalties. We completely fell apart as we took out our frustration with the refereeing out on the Kitscoty team. With 4 players ejected from the game, the players went through the motions, hoping the game would end. The final score was 9-1.

We want to forget that game and get on with the next, at Dewberry on November 30.

We have a very good skating club with a commitment from 12 players and two quality goaltenders. We believe we need only 2 or 3 quality hockey players to make us a leading contender in this league. This league is very stable and we believe we have a future to carry on for a long time in this league. If there are any players who would like to play for the Elks, our practice time is Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. For more information, give Del Smith a call at 724-2145 evenings, or call Tim Kubista at 724-2652.

The Elks first home game will be at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, December 3. Come out and support your local Senior Hockey team.

What's news at the library?

The library would like to congratulate Amber Kopeck, who won the draw for the free 1990 library membership. Supporters of our library, who purchased books at our annual book fair, were eligible to enter the draw.

The library purchased a large number of young adult books, as well as a selection of children and adult books from the book fair. These will be available to the general public in the near future. Watch for them!

The Storytime puppet theatre featured "The Little Red Hen", last Friday. Our audience was small, but enthusiastic.

Some more talking books in the library this week are: "The Lost World" by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle; "Miss Marple Investigates" by Agatha Christie; and two talking books by James Herriot, "It Shouldn't Happen to a Vet" and "The Lord God Made Them All"

NEW BOOKS:
"Mysterious Canada" by John Robert Colombo - If you have ever wondered about the existence of UFO's, the Sasquatch, buried treasure, haunted houses, apparitions, curses and such mysterious phenomena, then this book is for you. The author has collected and re-counted for the general reader the major and minor mysteries of Canada.

"The 1980's - Maclean's Chronicles the Decade" by Kevin Doyle - An exciting collection of more than 400 photographs by the world's top news photographers and text by the respected journalists at Maclean's.

YOUNG ADULT BOOKS:
"Round the Bend" by Mitzi Dale - A powerful novel about a girl who everybody thinks is crazy. But she doesn't agree. She is shunted from psychiatrist to hospital to group home struggling to make her way back to the real world.

In Memoriam

ORR, Clayton

In loving memory of our beloved son, brother, and grandson, Clayton Orr who passed away suddenly on November 30, 1986.

He left us so quickly,
His thoughts unknown,
But left us with a memory,
We are proud to own;
So treasure him Lord,
In your Garden of rest,
For when on earth,
He was one of the best.

Before the throne of God
Thousands of children stand,
Children whose sins are forgiven,
A holy, happy land.
Up there among the throng,
Our little Clayton stands,
Waiting for us to join him
In that holy, happy land.

Clayton, even though you and your big voice may have moved on, we will remember you forever.

Don't let your Christmas sparkle go up in smoke

The warm glow of the Christmas season is something we all enjoy.

But don't let that glow turn into tragedy.

Keep your holiday season both festive and safe. Take a few moments for a quick check of your Christmas lights before you deck the halls.

If you notice frayed cords or broken sockets replace the string. Keep metal icicles, tinsel and garlands away from lights. Don't use electric lights on metal Christmas trees. And when you are away or asleep, turn off all your decorative lights.

Only you can make your home a safe place. Start now.

When it comes to electrical safety - don't take chances.
